

Revista de Medicina e Investigación Universidad Autónoma del Estado de México

EDITORIAL CRITERIA

The Revista de Medicina e Investigación is a biannual publication, edited by the Autonomous University of the State of Mexico, which discloses results of unpublished and updated research pertaining to the health sciences, as well as works that provide information for the development of the medical sciences. The publication is aimed at researchers, critics, writers, teachers and readers in general of the scientific and cultural field in health matters.

The Revista de Medicina e Investigación is a scientific and arbitrated publication, arising from the need to create a broad space to disseminate original articles, review articles, academic reflections on studies that increase medical knowledge in Mexico and the world.

RULES FOR AUTHOR

Those interested in applying for their work in the Revista de Medicina e Investigación should send their proposal to revista_fmecina@uaemex.mx. The editorial committee of the journal will receive the submission of articles that meet the thematic profile, that is, they will necessarily address issues related to medical field studies and are original, unpublished and have not been proposed for publication in another or other journals. Collaborations must be sent either individually or collectively.

The works are reviewed by the editorial committee and, if it complies with the standards of the journal, by two reviewers under the international double blind peer review criteria. The opinion will be unappealable in all cases. The results may be: Approved, Approved with suggestions, Approved conditioned, or Rejected. In case of controversy in the first round, it will be sent to a third judge, whose decision will be final.

Once the acceptance or rejection of a work has been notified, its final acceptance will be conditioned to compliance with the modifications of style, form and content that the editor has communicated to the authors. The latter are responsible for the content of the work and the correct use of the references cited therein.

In accordance with the current legislation of the Autonomous University of the State of Mexico, the author(s) must sign a cession of copyrights to the journal. The authors will give their consent for their article to be disseminated by electronic means.

When experiments are presented in humans, it must be indicated whether the procedures followed were in accordance with the ethical standards of the Committee responsible for human experimentation (institutional or regional) and with the principles of the Helsinki declaration of 1975, revised in 1983 (<http://www.wma.net/e/policy/b3.htm>). A photocopy of the authorization of the corresponding Ethical Committee will be provided. When carrying out animal research, it will be indicated whether the European Community standards on animal research were followed.

The Revista de Medicina e Investigación signs the "Code of Conduct and Guidelines for Good Editorial Practices" proposed by COPE (<https://publicationethics.org/resources/code-conduct>).

In all cases it should be clarified if there is a conflict of interests or not, and if there was any financing.

Manuscripts may be submitted in Spanish or English and must meet the following characteristics:

- Title: in Spanish and English, which clearly reflects the content of the work.
- Authors' data: the name of the author (s) must be included, as well as their institutional affiliation, country and a contact email. In no case will one or several authors be added or removed once the manuscript has been received.
- Summary: no more than 200 words and include its English version (Abstract).
- Keywords: 3 to 6 words taken from a thesaurus (the Unesco Thesaurus is recommended <http://vocabularies.unesco.org/browser/thesaurus/en/>) with its respective English version (Key words). These keywords should not be part of the title.
- Content: structured in a clear manner and containing, at least: introduction, development and conclusions. At the end a section of references will be included, where only those that were cited will appear.

The articles have to conform to the current grammatical norms. Its maximum length will be 10 pages in Arial font 12 points, with a space and a half of line spacing, including footnotes, tables, graphs and references.

The text should be sent in .doc format. The sections and subtitles must be perfectly defined, as well as the place corresponding to the tables, tables and figures, which must be placed in the reference site including its source and title. They must also be sent in separate files with sufficient quality (greater than 300 dpi in images and Excel file for tables). The magazine is published in color, therefore illustrations or graphics without color are not accepted.

References should be submitted under the Vancouver standard, according to which they should be listed in order of appearance within the text, with Arabic numbers in superscript. If more than one reference is included per appointment, they will be separated by a comma if there are two or not consecutive (2,3 or 5,10), for more than two consecutive references in an appointment a script will be used (3-6). Footnotes should be avoided as much as possible. Below are some examples of the use of Vancouver standards for the final section of References:

For book:

Author (s) Title. Edition. Place of publication: Editor; Publication date.

Bianco José. Ficción y reflexión: una antología de sus textos. México: FCE; 1988.

For electronic book:

Author (s) Title of the book [Internet]. Edition. Place of publication: publisher; publication date [update date; date of consultation]. Availability. Notes.

For journal article:

Author (s) Article title. Title of the magazine. Date; volume (number): location.

Palacios C. M. J., Suárez K. E. B. Análisis confirmatorio del modelo contable y la gestión ambiental en la industria hotelera de Panamá. Investigación Administrativa. Enero-junio 2017; 46(119): 7-23.

Electronic journal article:

Author (s) of the article. Article title. Title of the journal [specific designation of material]. Date; volume (number): [location].

For conference proceedings:

Editor (es) Title of the work. Number and title of the congress; date of the congress; Place of the congress. Place of publication: publisher; date.

For conference papers:

Author (s) of the contribution. Title of the contribution. In: Editor (es). Title of the work. Number and name of the congress; date of the congress; Place of the congress. Place of publication: publisher; date. Location.

For thesis:

Author (s) Title of the thesis or work [dissertation or master's thesis]. Place of publication: publisher; date.

For patent:

Author (s), inventors; patent holder, assignee. Title of the patent. Country of issuance of the patent country code patent number. Publication date.

For websites:

Author (s) Title of the website [Internet]. Edition. Place of publication: publisher; publication date [update date; date of consultation]. Notes.

It is important to emphasize that the articles undergo a process of correction of style, so that Revista de Medicina e Investigación reserves the right to change some expressions and/or suggest modifications to improve the quality of the text.

All submitted articles that meet the thematic profile of the journal will be considered, without this implying mandatory publication or return of the material sent.

The content of the articles is the direct and exclusive responsibility of their authors. The director of the Revista de Medicina e Investigación reserves the right to make the modifications it deems pertinent.

In accordance with open access, the Journal of Medicine and Research publishes its contents under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivative 4.0 International license. On the other hand, it does not charge fees for work processing (APC) nor for its publication (if approved).

For more information, contact the mail: revista_ufmedicina@uaemex.mx.